The sense of history is captivating, the sense of style is compelling – this exceptional Footscray apartment combines the best of deco era elegance and modern designer excellence. A building that formerly thrived as the Olympic Tyre and Rubber Co. headquarters now buzzes with residential energy in the vibrant Banbury Village development, creating an inviting context for this one bedroom property's ideal spaces. The living/dining area flows to a full width balcony where the sights bring the evocative architecture to life while an open-plan kitchen efficiently integrates its storage, stone bench-top and stylish appliances. The double bedroom's built-in robes and impressive proportions are complemented by the beautifully finished separate bathroom of this sophisticated apartment, further enhanced by heating/cooling and total security. An allocated car space and storage cage complete a brilliant Banbury Village opportunity moments from Barkly Street, bike paths and West Footscray station.
