"Serenity now!", you'll scream no more after you move into this spacious tropical pole home nestled quietly on an acre of easily maintainable yard. You can view your tranquil surrounds from your upstairs timber deck or from the large airconditioned rumpus room on ground level. The split level home is ideal for a large family or may easily be split into dual quarters for either an Airbnb, student accommodation or guest quarters. This a truly quiet and peaceful home nestled well off the street with the only noise coming from songbirds and kookaburras. The upstairs living area extends out onto a huge timber balcony that overlooks the backyard and surrounding forests. The deck provides a superb entertainment area for guests. Alternatively, you may just want to hang the hammock between the internal Spotted Gum raw timber poles and swing yourself to sleep in the flow through breeze. Whilst the home is airconditioned, for the most part you need only open the large windows and french doors to allow the prevailing winds through negating the need for fans or aircon. This property has a true earthy and organic feel with polished timber floors, Spotted Gum Internal poles, Black Wattle Timber Island in the kitchen and large back yard. The front of the property is secluded by way of a nature reserve at the front buffering you from the street and neighbours. This home is epitome of chilled out and captures the essence of Kuranda and the 'Green Escape'. We don't expect this listing to last long, so please call to book an inspection to your new greenscape.
