When viewed from outside, the property's original architecture betrays nothing. Observed from within, a series of comprehensive renovations have brought it in line with contemporary style & taste. Its open-concept configuration offers a versatile, open-ended response to the question of interior design, optimised for maximum light and space. A widely-appointed kitchen occupies the eastern axis, complete with stone preparation benches, superior capacity, and movable central island. Embracing northerly views, two bedrooms with BIR share a skylit central bathroom boasting floating vanity, frameless waterfall shower, and tilework that is both luxurious and delicate. Further features include a full-sized laundry, sun-swept deck with garage, and a beautifully landscaped courtyard sitting below the soaring canopy of established palms. Peaceful, private, and positioned along a quiet cul-de-sac, live within walking distance of the wetlands and Chelsea Bicentennial Park, with Chelsea station village just around the corner.
