

1179 Channel Highway, Huntingfield, Tas 7055

House For Sale

Thursday, 11 April 2024

1179 Channel Highway, Huntingfield, Tas 7055

Bedrooms: 5

Bathrooms: 1

Parkings: 10

Area: 9220 m2

Type: House

Warren Lashmar
0427788205

Mickey White
0362206999

Expressions of interest closing Thurs 9/5/24

Nestled within the walls of the remarkable and historically significant Huntingfield House lies more than just a residence; it holds the promise of a breathtaking wedding venue. With its rich tapestry of history, elegant architectural design, and sprawling grounds, this property stands as an irresistible choice for those in search of a venue infused with heritage and grandeur. To reside within these walls is not merely to inhabit a home but to partake in a privilege—a journey through time where one can immerse themselves in the tales of yesteryear. The marriage of traditional elements such as the exposed stone walls and Georgian architecture with contemporary conveniences like the updated kitchen and original living areas results in a captivating and inviting ambiance, where past and present seamlessly intertwine. Wandering through the estate's grounds, adorned with mature olive trees, a picturesque stone staircase, a charming stable, and a timeless well, one can't help but feel a profound sense of tranquillity and connection to the land's storied past. It's as if each step taken serves as a nod to the stewardship bestowed upon those privileged enough to call Huntingfield House their own—a responsibility to safeguard its legacy for generations to come. For the fortunate few who have the honour of claiming Huntingfield House as their abode, it represents more than just a dwelling; it embodies a true privilege—a duty to uphold its heritage as one of Kingborough Municipality's most cherished and significant historic homes.