A sanctuary of charm and tranquility, this tightly held 1920s Californian bungalow is desirably tucked back and entirely secluded from the street on approx. 524sqm in a leafy blue ribbon setting. It offers refreshing flexibility for a growing family with flowing interiors predominantly on the one level full of enduring character and bathed in natural light from a north to rear aspect. Embraced by established gardens and with direct gated access to a verdant walkway through to Sirius Cove Reserve and dog beach, it promises an idyllic lifestyle with close proximity to Mosman's village centre, city transport including the ferry from Taronga Zoo, Clifton Gardens and a selection of highly sought-after schools. • Solid brick with high ceilings, ornate details and floorboards • Elevated rear deck for entertaining enjoys tree filled outlooks • Spacious living and dining areas, modern open plan kitchen • Four bedrooms or three with robes plus a second living area • Downstairs rumpus/teen retreat or office with third bathroom • Ducted gas heating, fireplace and subfloor ventilation system • Ample storage, wide double carport plus additional parking • Cul-de-sac street, gated access to rear reserve from garden
