With an 18 metre frontage this older timber home in liveable condition could make way for a more substantial home or development as very little of the facade is original, the windows having been changed in the 1960-70s. But it could also be the skeleton on a magnificent family home as it becomes rarer to secure a large piece of inner city land. The old period home has seen better days but is liveable and with three bedrooms, a lounge and dining, country kitchen, traditional bathroom. A range of old shedding options, 1960s garage structure on the drive the opportunity abounds. Encircled by the generous garden allotment as Hutton Street rises to the ridge.
