This charming 1966 build exudes that yesteryear feel and would so easily cater to a modern touch. It is very conveniently located in a peaceful street in popular Svensson Heights. Hidden beneath the carpet are solid hardwood timber floors, they just need to be released and let that treasure shine. The use of silky oak doors and window furnishings express a different era, all blending to help create the character of the home. From the clean face brick and chamferboard exterior to the internal VJ walls and timber floors, this home is a beautiful blend of natural materials. Take those elements and complement them with a modern touch and you will enjoy living in a home with a difference. Designed to allow natural light and ventilation to flow through, this simple 3-bedroom plan has been built with a strong emphasis on space. The paved brick featured courtyards flow out from the informal area of the home and await that green thumb to furbish them with a love of plants. Four generations of the one family have loved this home ... now is the time to hand over the charm and character for the next. Nestled peacefully in one of Bundaberg's most popular locations, this is a house you will proudly call your home.
