Located in one of the region's original dress-circle settings when homes had a sense of grandeur and were built to last, this two-level sanctuary is set off the main road and has some classy updates throughout its layout while staying sympathetic to its era. Spacious interiors showcase two bedrooms, open plan living, a bathroom and island kitchen on the ground floor, and three bedrooms, a luxuriously renovated bathroom, huge retreat and office upstairs. A crowning feature is the circular-edge on the top floor balcony and its verdant green vista, and not to be outdone, the property's rear includes a second balcony, open air terrace, and merges softly with lush bushland to promote privacy. Surrounded by towering Eucalypts and with a view over Blackbutt Reserve, you'll feel like your miles away from the city buzz, yet Westfield Kotara, New Lambton and the John Hunter Hospital are all within a 4.5km radius. -?Statement home with art deco origins and a real sense of style -?Front and rear balconies plus a spacious open-air terrace -?Open plan living/dining plus a generous retreat boasting bushland views -?Large timber island kitchen offering abundant bench and cupboard space -?Five bedrooms cater perfectly to a big or blended family -?The double-sized master bedroom enjoys direct access into a sunroom-?Bathrooms on each level, the main is oversized and includes a freestanding bath-?Built-in robes, handy mudroom, carport adjoining a tandem lock-up garage -?220m to New Lambton Heights Infants School, zoned for Lambton High School
