Enjoy a tree change and create your very own lifestyle. You will be living close to the town of Woodford, which originated from the Durundur Station, established in 1841, the town was positioned on a hill close to the Stanley River. Timber cutting was the original industry here but later dairying was introduced. Now all you need is in town from great options to shop and terrific services to choose from. This is an awesome area to be part of and get involved with and land here has everything you need to create your very own hobby farmlet and indulge yourself with maybe some small farm animals or maybe a bit of land to grow some crops. Best part is, it's your choice. State and private schools are in the area and there is plenty to look forward to including the local show and the now world-famous Woodford Folk Festival. And the challenging and very scenic Woodford golf course will sort you out. The course prides itself on its great atmosphere for social golfers, but watch out for the pin positions and get advice from the pro shop before you tee off. Living in Woodford will probably be your best chance to bet the city life and get yourself a slice of peace and quiet, which comes from acreage living.*Terms and conditions apply.
