Centrally located in a quiet culdesac, within a short stroll to the local primary and high school and trade training centre. The 1953 build is still in original condition however the property has been in the one family for many years, and it has been lovingly maintained throughout this time. The open plan living, and wide hallways provides a sense of space and light. The original kitchen does require an upgrade however it is in perfect working order as is the bathroom. The main bedroom is spacious, with the access to the third bedroom leading from the main, perfect for a nursery or office space. The main bedroom still has the original glass sliding doors leading out to the rear of the home, where you can enjoy the garden views and let the fresh air come to you. Heating consists of an in built wood heater, reverse cycle air conditioner and the property has a northerly aspect. Stepping outside there are numerous garden sheds, a huge double carport which is also great for entertaining, an inground pool and a BBQ area nestled in the pretty, established gardens. The level allotment is fully fenced, and the rural back drop ensures a country feel yet you are in central suburbia. There is so much opportunity with this property, with the option to develop it further by building units or cut the minimum land size off into a separate title given the size and access of the block.
