A revelation of bright, generous design with a warm, welcoming ambience, this four bedroom mid-century modern triumph is a family haven in a buzzing locale, brilliantly close to everything. Transformed by its owner and architect in the mid-50s and enjoyed by his family ever since, the two storey home makes the most of natural light. With a lounge, dining room, kitchen, family room and versatile home office, retreat or studio, it centres a large, paved courtyard, perfect for entertaining. Comfortable bedrooms with built-in robes include a very spacious main with double glazed windows, plus there's a study. You'll find a bathroom on each level, including a family bathroom highlighting a refreshing sage colour scheme. With an earthy natural palette predominant, embracing timber surfaces and exposed brick walls, the abode is enhanced by off street parking, accessed via right of way from Park Street. Footsteps to Royal Park, #19 trams, Jewell station, Barkly Square and vibrant Sydney Road, close to universities and a short commute to the CBD, it's proof that masterful design endures for generations.
