Blessed with a picture postcard street presence and enhanced throughout by traditional hallmarks capturing all the romance of a bygone era, such as high ceilings, dado boards, intricate plasterwork, original timber floors, exposed brick, and an ornate fireplace, this home ignites your heart and delights the senses. Given a thorough makeover where careful consideration has gone into every detail, its layout reveals three large bedrooms, a cosy winter lounge room, and an open plan living area meeting an alfresco terrace, where long summer evenings will be savoured. The kitchen and bathroom are perfect in every way, with both complementing the home's charming good looks. Located within the original part of North Rothbury, from here you can immerse yourself in so many local attractions. The quaint town of Branxton is a lovely spot to meet friends for coffee, you can celebrate milestones at one the Hunter Valley's world class restaurants or wineries, and easily grab weekly groceries at Coles Huntlee, just down the road. -?Single level sandstone home given a cute-as-a-button top-to-bottom restoration -?Gorgeous from the street and just as beautiful inside, original features shine throughout -?Boasting both side and rear lane access for added convenience -?Bedrooms are large (two are double-sized and include a window seat), all have robe storage -?Air-conditioned open plan living area with a rear wall of glass beaming sunlight and offering alfresco connection -?Eat-in kitchen with farmhouse sink, dishwasher, induction cooktop, and leadlight window -?Magazine-worthy bathroom where a brick wall is beautifully exposed and a deep claw-foot bath guarantees relaxation -?Freestanding 6m x 4m shed as well as a garden storage shed and potting shed -?Two minutes from the Hunter Expressway for an effortless Upper Hunter, Newcastle, Central Coast or Sydney commute -?Close to Huntlee Shopping Centre, Tavern, local schools, Branxton Golf Club, and the Hunter Valley's iconic concert venues
