This beautiful home, built in 2019, would be a great investment opportunity or first home for someone. The fact that there is a current lease in place could make it an attractive option for an investor looking for an income-generating property. The three good-sized bedrooms and an open plan living area make it a comfortable space for tenants or homeowners alike. The large backyard with stunning views is also a great feature, especially for families with children and pets and all services are close by. Be quick to see this one!
