With a commanding view of the pool and the main living area, this is where life happens, and happens in style. There are two distinct living spaces in this design. The primary one is the every day living room and meals area. The second is the front lounge room, which incorporates a study space if you need it. It's super practical. Speaking of the study, there is also a separate study at the front of the home. It could make a fifth bedroom if required; proving once again that this is the most versatile of floor plans.
