Located in the picturesque township of Frankford, just a 40 minute drive from Launceston and about the same from Devonport, you'll find this great opportunity to purchase a rural block with a small quaint log cabin home and one of the biggest sheds you're likely to find. The property is perfectly positioned on just over 41 acres of land, offering a mix of both pasture and bush. This is a great opportunity to live the simple life and enjoy all the peace and quiet you would expect in this rural setting, whilst also having the opportunity to run a business from home (STCA) out of the huge 36x10m shed! If running a business isn't your thing, perhaps you have an abundance of boys toys or collectible cars you need to find a home for- either way, this property has plenty of room for trucks, cars, boats, whatever the case may be. The one bedroom log-cabin, whilst simple, does offer a good foundation or starting point to perhaps expand to a larger family home if desired, or alternatively you may choose to construct a new dwelling on your choice of multiple locations across the expansive 41 acres. If this property sounds like it could be for you they don't hesitate to give me a call today to arrange your very own viewing of this unique opportunity.
