Entirely re-modelled by renowned architect Stephen Jolson this home was designed to meet the high standards of having once been his own private residence. Inspired ideas and clever concepts define a distinctive floorplan in which attention to detail delights the senses while zoned spaces deliver unforgettable indoor outdoor holistic appeal. A north facing living room that also functions as a home theatre or home office sets a style agenda that's supported by central living/dining areas with a fireplace and an open plan kitchen where aesthetics match efficiency. The courtyard contributes a retreat of absolute privacy, seamlessly linked to the interior by floor to ceiling sliding glass. Two captivating bedrooms and two superb bathrooms include a main suite to the rear, enjoying its own courtyard and a sensational raked window wall. Concealed by beautiful fig vine, complemented by heating and cooling, ample roof storage and off street parking - an utterly unique inner city escape in the always desirable Hawksburn pocket.
