Imagine a life where simplicity meets serenity, inviting you to rediscover the joys of a pared-back lifestyle, where the biggest decision to be made for the day is if you chuck the tinny in for a quick trip to check the pots. Nestled two streets back from the ocean front, this practical home offers not just a relaxed lifestyle that many seek but a direct connection to nature's unspoiled beauty. With three bedrooms and a welcoming open-plan living area, it's designed for those who appreciate the understated charm and a slower pace of life. Perfect for the retiree looking for great side access for a large caravan or boat, investor or even first home buyers looking to buy Seaside without the huge price tag. Inside, you'll find everything you need, an abundance of natural light and breezes coming through the home and air-conditioning is available for the balmy nights. The bedrooms are all a decent size with two large alfresco areas, the yard can be separated to keep pets closer to the house and as mentioned earlier there is ample room down the side of the home to park a large boat and caravan. Flying Fish Point is well and truly on the radar and the time is prime to make your move before this sleepy little village gets even more well known – located within a short 6-minute drive to Innisfail CBD a minute to the local boat ramps and a short stroll to the beachfront for sundowners with the neighbours overlooking the water. So, if you're ready to embrace a simpler, more meaningful lifestyle – don't delay give Monique or Daniel a call today.
