Elders Goulburn is proud to present this stunning period cottage set in the Endrick Valley and hugging the fringe of the Morton National Park. For those looking for a complete, self-sufficient tree change, or for the ultimate entertainer's paradise for family and friends. The stone cottage has been tastefully and lovingly restored and modernized, whilst keeping with the feel of the history of the property and its original Irish settlers. It has featured in national style publications; Home Beautiful and Country Style magazines, with no question as to why! The property currently runs as a boutique accommodation destination. An off-grid paradise where people can un-plug, recharge, and get back to nature. Its close proximity to the National Park gives the feeling of ultimate seclusion and provides endless walking and cycling adventures. The home is the ultimate in romantic country style. You can walk in and gush at the entry to every room. Everywhere you look, you can imagine where the original settlers would have sat or lived, and it evokes your emotional senses. If the accommodation isn't enough, you walk outside into perfectly planned and plotted established gardens. Rambling roses, towering trees, and the most gorgeous balance of cottage style plants greet you everywhere you look and are an absolute feast for the eyes.
