Built c.1880 by renowned builder and Adelaide mayor William Bunday, it has been infused with a refined contemporary aesthetic that is perfect for those seeking an immaculate home within walking distance of the very best Adelaide has to offer. Location truly is key. Acres of Parklands, Adelaide Oval, vibrant Melbourne Street, Universities, playing fields, The Zoo, The Botanical Gardens, boutiques, eateries and the CBD are all on the doorstep, making this one of the most enviable and conveniently positioned properties in Adelaide. Gently elevated above a manicured formal garden, the particularly attractive semi-detached sandstone façade boasts a bay window, picked quoins, and veranda with iron lacework, slate steps and tessellated tiles. A traditional central hallway with period details, including lofty ceilings, stained floorboards and a decorative arch, introduces a spacious and versatile floorplan. A formal lounge features a bay window, fireplace and ceiling rose. Three sizable bedrooms include one with an adjacent two-way bathroom, and another with a wall of built-in robes plus adjacent bathroom with bath and separate powder room. Northerly light floods the beautifully designed extension that incorporates open plan living, meals and the entertainer's kitchen with sleek cabinetry, stone countertops and a range of integrated European appliances. A bank of sliders reveals a private outdoor oasis punctuated by lush lawn, clipped hedging and a fragrant wall of latticed star jasmine.
