Imagine a quaint English country-side cottage, nestled into rolling hills with endless sweeping views. Quirky by name and picture-esque by nature, Foggy Bottom Farm is just over 3 acres of pure paradise and encapsulates the essence of this English countryside feel. Built within an original rainforest, cattle had alone roamed the paddocks. Now, the property boasts a stunning main house, rustic outdoor BBQ area and indoor games room - the old-world' feel to the property further enhanced by utilising recycled doors, windows, bathroom elements and galvanised iron roofing. The rainforest remains protected and provides a windbreak for the property, which is ideal considering the numerous exterior spots from which to enjoy Foggy Bottom Farm. Also including its fair share of interior spaces suited for gatherings and weekends away, it's clear why this property is the perfect solution for people wanting the quaint, country-side acreage and home for generations to come. The double storey barn, superb for hosting guests, set amongst charming gardens includes an upper deck with which to soak in endless, sweeping views across beautiful Wildes Meadow.
