Nymagee is a small rural town located 100km south of Cobar in New South Wales and approximately 660 kilometers northwest of Sydney and 750 kilometers west of Brisbane. The Nymagee Pub is the heart of the town and a popular spot for both locals and tourists. This historic establishment has been serving as a meeting point and watering hole since the early 1900s. Nymagee has a strong mining history, with gold, copper, lead, zinc and silver mining being a significant part of its heritage. The surrounding Outback region offers numerous outdoor activities for adventure enthusiasts. Visitors can go camping, bushwalking, or birdwatching in the vast expanses of the Outback. Exploring the nearby national parks, such as the Gundabooka National Park or the Mount Grenfell Historic Site, allows for encounters with unique wildlife and ancient Aboriginal rock art. Nymagee is also home to "Clancy of the Overflow" a poem written by the famous bush poet Banjo Paterson. The sheep station, "The Overflow" featured in the poem is situated about 32 kilometres south east of Nymagee. Lot 1. 41 Milford Street Nymagee. Lot 15 DP4381.
