Significant in scale and scope, the property's distinctive and highly-desirable dimensions include a combination of low-maintenance spaces, north-facing outdoor entertaining, and outstanding capacity for multi-generational living. A self-contained unit at the rear features separate spaces for living and dining intersected by a central kitchen. Its two bedrooms & bathrooms clearly demonstrate its credentials as a retreat for grandparents, abode for growing teens, or an Airbnb. The main residence is classically comfortable, its original details perfectly compatible with contemporary taste. The colour palette is neutral, with a restrained use of materials and free-flowing layout creating a light & airy atmosphere that invites creative redesign. The dramatic sense of space on show is amplified by the property's proximity to Dandenong Ranges National Park, which stands only metres from the door. Favours families, Ferntree Gully North Primary School is just around the corner. With the train station just a short walk away, this property ticks all the boxes for peace, proportion, and position.
