Once in a very long while you come across a home that is truly special, something you could so very easily fall in love with. 43a Alton Road in the idyllic township of Cooranbong is most definitely one of those! This gorgeous cottage is perfectly positioned on the highest point of a large 959m² block, set well back from the street for privacy and close to local shops, schools and the Avondale University. Upon your approach you are greeted by carefully manicured gardens that lead to this incredibly unique treasure, that was built by a highly respected local master builder with no expense spared to create this masterpiece. You will be spellbound by the myriad of bespoke features such as the beautiful polished concrete floors, incredible soaring cathedral ceilings and a gorgeous slightly French Provincial inspired kitchen. Custom designed and made timber doors and windows are just some of the intricate details found throughout the home, plus a huge brick fireplace feature takes centre stage in the living room and a loft third bedroom or study provides an elevated perspective. The convenience of a single garage and single carport plus additional open parking complete this magnificent picture. Don't miss this once in a lifetime opportunity to secure a work of art!
