Central Avenue in New York, the Champs-Élysées in Paris, La Rambla in Barcelona. Cities of global renown are defined by their most famous districts. For Melbourne, this is undoubtedly Collins Street, which presents the most historic, vibrant, and richly-rewarding cultural experience of Melbourne's CBD. A product of the creative minds at Bruce Henderson Architects, 568 Collins Street is one of the CBD's tallest buildings, and on the 45th floor, this property makes the most of it. This engineering marvel comes equipped with fantastic amenities, including gymnasium, pool, spa, and sauna. Suited for the entertainer, this single-bedroom domain encompasses an open-concept configuration with a comprehensive suite of modern material elements that assure future owners of luxurious, low-maintenance success. Features include wall-to-wall & floor-to-ceiling windows, a fully-tiled bathroom, floating kitchen cabinetry, living room AC, balcony, and uninterrupted views across the Yarra River. Located along a blue-chip corridor walking distance from Flinders Street Station, live within steps of local bars, restaurants, clubs, cafes, and markets; with everything you would ever need at your door.
