Nestled amidst the leafy grace of Daisy Hill, the residence at 474 Springwood Road emerges as a masterpiece of architectural ingenuity and natural splendour. This distinctive A-frame abode, masterfully constructed with the finest Cyprus pine, offers a living experience that seamlessly blends the rustic charm of the countryside with the refined comforts of modern living. Occupying a generous 1968 sqm parcel in one of the most coveted streets near the prestigious John Paul College, this property stands as a serene sanctuary, offering an idyllic retreat from the hustle and bustle of daily life. Upon entering, you are immediately enveloped in the inviting warmth of the Cyprus pine-panelled living area, where every detail has been carefully curated to foster an atmosphere of relaxation and warmth. The luxurious carpet underfoot, combined with an air-conditioning system, creates a haven of comfort regardless of the season. The expansive floor-to-ceiling picture frame windows bathe the space in a soft, natural light, enhancing the intricate grain of the pine and casting a serene glow across the room. Venetian blinds offer both privacy and the flexibility to adjust the ambiance to your liking. Central to the living space is an enchanting fireplace, promising cozy evenings and a focal point for family gatherings. Adjacent, the ceramic-tiled bar area, replete with saloon-style doors and a timber, blending seamlessly with the modern amenities to create a space that is both functional and visually stunning. Ascending the hardwood timber staircase, you're led to the sanctity of the private quarters on the top floor, where the continuity of Cyprus pine and hardwood floors weaves a thread of unity through the home's design. The master suite is a study in tranquillity, with soaring ceilings and expansive sliding windows framing verdant vistas and inviting in a dance of light and shadow. The gentle whir of the ceiling fan and the mirrored built-in wardrobes add layers of convenience and elegance to this restful haven. The ensuite bathroom, a symphony of ceramic tiling and Cyprus pine panelling, offers a spa-like escape, with a detachable showerhead and a standalone bath promising moments of blissful relaxation. The separate toilet enhances functionality and privacy, ensuring a seamless blend of form and function. The additional bedroom whispers stories of comfort and serenity, with plush carpets, Cyprus pine doors, and a private balcony offering secluded views of the lush landscape. Meticulously designed to provide a personal retreat, complete with ceiling fans and glass sliding doors that invite the outside in. The heart of the home, the kitchen, stands as a testament to functionality and style, with a breakfast bar-style countertop and an integrated wraparound dining table fostering connectivity and culinary creativity. Beyond the interior lies a verdant paradise, where multiple relaxation zones beckon amidst the manicured gardens. The in-ground spa, encircled by bespoke decking and a patio, offers a secluded nook for unwinding under the stars. The timber patio, adorned with shade awnings, creates an al fresco sanctuary perfect for dining, entertaining, or simply revelling in the tranquillity of your private oasis. Practicality is woven into the fabric of this property, with side access and a double carport ensuring ease of living. The inclusion of a garden shed provides a discreet solution for storage, maintaining the aesthetic integrity of your outdoor space. 474 Springwood Road is not merely a house; it is a beacon of lifestyle and luxury for those who seek harmony with nature, the tactile beauty of Cyprus pine, and the convenience of proximity to educational excellence like John Paul College. This property is a rare offering that melds the allure of rustic elegance with the sophistication of modern living, making it a compelling proposition for those who demand the very best. Make no mistake, this property will sell on or before April 6th under the hammer. So don't miss this opportunity to make this property your own!
