Its first floor corner position – the best in the building – provides this inviting apartment with the significant advantage of natural light on three aspects including a leafy rear orientation that complements its balcony. Original polished parquet floors and the contrasting texture of a painted exposed brick wall contribute enduring character to a design in which the living/dining area reveals the appeal of the balcony retreat. A kitchen zone equipped with modern appliances, mosaic tiled splashbacks and efficient cabinetry projects an attractive personality of its own while two double bedrooms including a main bedroom accompanied by built-in robes each feature the beautiful parquet floors. A central bathroom of ideal size and pleasing style completes the picture. The presence of an allocated car space adds ideal convenience to a great location close to Point Gellibrand Coastal Heritage Park, Williamstown station, Bay Trail West and the water.
