This classic Mossman home is priced to sell! First home buyers or investors keen to take advantage of the buoyant rental market should take a close look at this one, but you'll need to be quick. Deceptively large, the home is brimming with the character, quirks and charms of days gone by. While currently presenting in an original state, it also holds excellent potential for personalisation or remodelling that would really make it your own. Tropical palms and ferns screen the entry which is made via the wide front porch which has been semi-enclosed to provide a very practical and usable space. Double sliding doors open into the open plan living, dining and kitchen area which is adorned with lovely polished floorboards (vinyl in the kitchen). The geometric-styled kitchen bench is a feature in itself and is complemented by the period style timber veneer cabinetry. A large servery window above the sink allows for easy service to the dining area into which the floorboards continue. Three of the four good sized bedrooms are located on one side of the main living area while the fourth resides privately towards the rear of the home. Timber floorboards, air conditioning, ceiling fans and high ceilings feature in all. The bathroom offers a walk-in shower and timber vanity while the toilet is located separately for maximum convenience, in close proximity to the laundry. Similar to the front, the deep rear patio is fully covered and semi-enclosed for optimum comfort. As with the rest of the house, it is elevated to promote natural airflow. Outside, the large Colourbond shed has been fitted with all the man cave essentials including power, water, TV reception and a serene natural outlook over cane fields to the ranges and mountains in the distance. The generous 790m² block offers good side access for a trailer or boat and is fenced on two sides. Add the short drive or walk to all of Mossman's amenities, and it's easy to see the attraction that this property provides.
