This bold and expansive 5-bedroom freestanding chalet, designed by Professor Peter McIntyre AO, has recently undergone significant internal upgrades, whilst maintaining and remaining true to the original design intent of this era. The moment you walk through the main entry, you are met with a fresh and calm palette that complements the highly considered floor plan. The ground floor comprises a remarkable feature gas log fireplace that provides a very clever structure to zone the meals and living area. The kitchen has recently been refurbished and offers modern appliances, complete with a commanding view to the south over Geebung Road. Two of the five bedrooms within the chalet are situated on this level, serviced by a central bathroom, and benefit from private treed aspects. There is a second separate light-filled living zone upstairs which is ideal for a 'kids retreat', and two additional bedrooms with a central bathroom. The design excellence continues on this level, with feature windows and built-in day beds, making it the ideal place to relax and unwind after a busy day full of adventure. Further highlights include: - Possible ground-floor fifth bedroom/rumpus room and/or garage - Walk-in Laundry - Central bathroom with a separate powder room on the ground floor - Magnificent west-facing outdoor entertaining area - Heating throughout - Generous allotment of 463m<sup>2</sup> approx. - The first brick dwelling constructed at Dinner Plain - Outstanding connection to Cobungra Platter, Dinner Plain's very own beginner ski-run, and all of Dinner Plain's finest retail and hospitality amenities. Dinner Plain is a true all-year-round destination with outstanding trails for hiking, cycling, XC skiing and a short drive from Hotham and the Hotham Airport.
