Enveloped by glorious bushland and showcasing an enchanting outlook straight onto a verdant green blanket of trees, this charismatic residence is a private and protected sanctuary for families. Nestled on a quiet street that rests above Sugarloaf Bay, this tranquil pocket of Middle Cove is a magical spot to raise a family. With a range of living areas and breakout zones, the versatile nature of the floorplan means you can mould this home to your needs, even as your children grow older. Charming mid-century features add interest and character, with big-picture windows inviting natural light into the interiors. A free-flowing, sun-dappled living area with high vaulted ceilings is extended by a balcony that invites you to float between indoor and outdoor zones with ease. A rumpus room offers a protected space to settle in and watch a movie, whilst an additional sitting area provides another space to break away and find some solitude. All bedrooms offer outlooks onto bushland, including a spacious master retreat. Beyond the boundary of your backyard, beautiful bushland surrounds the house, gifting your children with the simplicity of being able to explore and play in nature. Enjoy close and convenient access to bushwalking tracks, Willoughby Park and Harold Reid Reserve, as well as Willoughby shops and eateries, local schools, with easy travel to the city.
