Positioned just a short stroll from leafy Eglinton Reserve, Anniversary Trail, buses and High Street trams to Kew Junction shopping and restaurants, this single level brick home offers a superb opportunity to reside in the heart of Kew. With abundant natural light, the home also presents exciting scope for future updates, and features an excellent dual access street frontage ideal for those working from home. Privately framed by colourful established gardens, the home features a combination of polished timber and elegant engineered oak flooring, with lofty high ceilings throughout creating a tranquil sense of space and light. The living room showcases a striking oversized skylight, and is set alongside a separate galley style kitchen with tiled splashbacks, a freestanding gas cooker, and a casual dining area. Secluded at the rear of the home, an expansive master bedroom leads to an adjacent private study. The master also offers an ensuite bathroom, and flows out to a timber decking and paved terrace. The back garden also includes low maintenance leafy borders, a mature lemon tree, and a large lock-up shed / cubby house. Positioned at the opposite end of the residence, an oversized second bedroom includes generous built-in wardrobes and a ceiling fan, with the potential to enjoy direct access from the home's street frontage – perfect for use as a professional practice for those working from home. The central bathroom includes a separate bathtub and a waterfall showerhead. Featuring split system air conditioning, gas and panel heaters and paved off-street parking, the home is zoned for both Kew High School and Kew Primary School, and is also moments from an array of Melbourne's finest independent schools.
