The ultimate family oasis designed for every season and stage of life, this hidden sanctuary presents a lifestyle of unmatched tranquility atop a private 2,068sqm parcel. Cherished by its current owners for nearly 30 years, the five-bedroom residence has been renovated and extended by Robin Spencer Architects from an original 1930s bungalow into an inspired estate for families with big and little kids. Imbued with a comforting and calming ambience, the indoor/outdoor composition seamlessly merges with the landscaping, water feature, tennis court and swimming pool. Offering an abundance of space indoors, the open living and dining area is framed by 3.86m ceilings, bi-folds and windows to harness cross-breezes in summer and create an effortless connection to the chef's kitchen. Adorned with traditional leadlight windows, French doors, ceiling roses and timber floors, two additional living areas form part of the original house with a wood-burning fireplace to gather around in winter. Catering to exceptional entertaining and family meals, the kitchen captures an uninterrupted line of sight across the home and features European appliances, a scullery, and a central island for casual dining and conversation. With so many hideaways awaiting, you will always find the perfect spot for leisure, entertaining and fun. Dual timber decks allow you to chase the morning and afternoon sun and watch kids swim in the pool and play tennis, basketball and cricket on the north/south tennis court. Large-scale parties can be held outside, and you can sit under the mango tree with a wine in hand as you relax amongst the lush lawns and gardens.
