Fisherman's shack, seaside cottage - whatever sounds good to you. What does say it all - "they do not make them anymore!" "Lettes Bay" is a diverse collection of rustic shacks that is an important part of Strahan's history. The earliest "Shack" is thought to have been constructed around 1890, the majority between the early 1920's and late 1950's. "Lettes Bay was thus created, since construction, most "Shacks" have and continue to be, modified.No. 69 is just that - built 1959, modified and enjoyed as a holiday break. Peaceful, beautiful, and simply winding back time. The buildings enjoy the main area of the open plan living/sleeping/dining and kitchen with magnificent views, the second building greets you with a very romantic bedroom, a private bathroom with a shower. Also ideal for Airbnb (STCA), each building is only a few steps away from each other. This piece of history now could be yours.
