Classic Cottlesloe This is a simply amazing family home with a perfect orientation facing north, offering all the benefits of a corner position. From the moment you enter this home, the sense of space and light is absolutely breathtaking. I love the private entry from the side street that brings you right into the heart of the home. You immediately notice the striking modern extension that ensures you are going to fall in love with your new home. With full-height glass doors opening to the garden and full-height ceilings adding to the sense of the dramatic, as you take it all in. Perfect for all seasons, the home opens to the north, where you view the long grassed area (perfect for a spot of cricket) with a generous pool and outdoor entertaining space with a barbecue that can be used all year round. I love the picture windows looking through to the garden, the lead light entry, the open fire and hearth, the capacious main bedroom suite, and the children's retreat. And it really is that home that feels like a sanctuary where you can find your space and your sense of place in this beautifully designed home. It's the perfect combination where you can watch the children play or entertain in style or casually catch up in the alfresco area beside the pool. This home caters to all your moods all year round. You walk up the hill to the Cottlesloe Tennis Club and a little bit further to the ocean or across to the Surf Club or the Civic Centre; it's just so connected to everywhere you want to be. And then there is the garage and storage courtyard placed away from the house off the second street - store your bikes and boards conveniently and easy to access. This house will make you smile as it is just a happy place to be. To find your happy place and to discover the quintessential Cottlesloe home, call me now.
