Full of character and old-world Australian charm, the Western Hotel at Mitchell is now up for sale. This is a one of a kind property that you don't want to miss. All serious offers will be considered so call today. The purchase of this 'Queenslander-style' country pub is an opportunity to semi-retire, pack up the family and embrace a rural seachange, or simply own a business out-of-town and put a Manager in place. Set on just over an acre of flat land, the possibilities are as big as your imagination can be. Features include the following:- 13 fully functional bedrooms (think bed and breakfast styling) internally refurbished and now complete with TV's and air-conditioning- 3 full bathrooms for guests- Entrance foyer with a reception area to check in guests- Well-appointed kitchen and dining hall with plenty of storage and entertaining space, plus ample cooking facilities - 2 fireplaces, Jarrah feature internal staircase, lounge and beer garden all on the lower level- Distinctive main highway frontage with plenty of parking and easy access- Quirky pieces of character that are irreplaceable include headlight doors, polished timber floors throughout, ornate ceilings and cornices and stained glass windows. The township of Mitchell is located approx. 570 km west of Brisbane, and is easily accessible by Westlander on rail. It is well established and has an existing golf club, caravan park, hospital, school and arts centre. Become the event venue for all major happenings with a bit of creativity and future vision. With a large grey nomad contingent that frequents the town, there are plenty of things that continue to bring people to the area, like the local artesian springs. Add the renewal of licensing and this would really bring the venue to life. Please note - there are no current licenses in place. Inspections are welcome by appointment.
