Nestled on a secluded 1.5-hectare property, this Van Dyke architecturally designed pole home is a peaceful haven for those seeking to escape the hustle and bustle of city life. Situated on the hilltops surrounded by native bushland, this retreat offers stunning views and tranquility like no other. As you approach the property, you are greeted by the sound of a mountain spring-fed creek that flows gracefully through the back of the property, adding to the serenity of the surroundings. The house itself blends seamlessly with the natural landscape and offering a connection to the beauty of the outdoors. The living spaces are thoughtfully laid out, with an open dining and living area that provides a perfect spot for relaxing and entertaining. The kitchen is spacious and well-equipped, with gas stove and ample storage space. The large rear deck overlooks the pristine creek, offering a peaceful place to enjoy a morning coffee or evening glass of wine. The property has hypogene enrichment, meaning there are crystals found all over the property, including the creek and around the entire property you will come across many beautiful clear quartz. There is the master bedroom offering direct access to the deck and stunning views of the creek. The second room can be converted to a fully enclosed bedroom and the third room is suitable for use as a nursery or walk in robe and is currently being used as a store room. The bathroom is beautifully finished with polished wood ceilings and with a rustic finish full of character and modern cabinetry. A storage room under the house provides ample space for storing outdoor equipment or could be converted into a workshop or studio. The property is completely off the grid, with a 48-volt solar system powering the house and two 48-volt batteries storing energy for use during the night. There is also a powered shed on the property that could be converted into a granny flat or guest accommodation. The greenhouse is a gardener's delight, providing space for growing your own fruits, vegetables, and herbs. With resident tree kangaroos, cassowaries, Boyd's Forest Dragon and jungle perch inhabiting the surrounding bushland, this property offers a unique opportunity to experience the beauty and wildlife of the Australian rainforest. Despite its secluded location, the house is equipped with satellite technology, allowing you to stay connected with the outside world through wifi calls and streaming services. This sanctuary is perfect for those seeking a quiet retreat in the midst of nature. With its stunning views, permanent creek and abundant wildlife, this property offers a truly unique and peaceful living experience.
