Enjoying magnificent views of the Royal Botanic Gardens and city skyline with glimpses of the bay, this evocative 1962 residence within the celebrated and tightly held Robin Boyd designed "Domain Park" delivers immediate lifestyle appeal with exciting scope to add contemporary luxury to an architectural landmark. Embracing both northern light and the wonderful Botanic Gardens and city views, the generous living and dining room opens to a wide north-facing undercover balcony. The separate original kitchen connects with the dining area via a servery window. All commanding stunning views, the three double bedrooms and home office are accompanied by a bathroom with shower-room, separate toilet and a powder-room. Literally on the doorstep to the Domain Precinct's acclaimed restaurants and cafes, Anzac station, Toorak Rd's boutiques and restaurants, trams and elite schools, it includes original timber joinery throughout, gas heater, laundry and car-space.
