Rarely these days do you find a property at this price point with nothing to spend. Loving restored both in and out of this is a ripper of an opportunity. A cottage look may best describe the street appeal. Substantial and classy fencing both sets this property off but also adds security. The bedrooms are a great size, the kitchen and living are very homely and tastefully presented. Externally the gardens are neat, the driveway impressive all the way to a massive shed. The property boasts solar power and is suited to a wide array of buyers, but it is the buyer who recognizes the effort and money spent that will be rewarded with a great deal.
