The coastal suburb of Redhead is highly sought after, especially homes in what is described by locals as the Golden Triangle. There are a select few homes in this area that are close to the beach and the Surf Life Saving Club that is attended to by lifeguards. The home itself is architecturally designed and built in 2005. Ultra-modern lines and a sandstone besa block build provide the home with an incredible façade and street presence. This is truly a family home, not one of the cute cottages that a lot of Redhead is renowned for. If you are after space for the growing family in a fantastic seaside position, then this could be for you. Some of the inclusions:

- Ultra-modern sandstone besa block home. Built in 2005
- Glass front door with security screen
