Historic Elegance Meets Modern Comfort

EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST

The cottage at 19 St Judes Street, built between 1858-1861, has a rich history. Originally owned by Joseph Finke, it later became the home of Andrew O'Brien, a coach driver for Cobb and Co. In 1885, Elizabeth Jackson and her family moved in, marking the start of a three-generation legacy at this address. After her husband George's death, Elizabeth was supported by her nearby family, including her widowed sisters. The cottage is now listed on the City of Onkaparinga's local heritage register, preserving its historical significance for future generations.

The centrepiece of the property is a cosy loft residence. The master suite is a standout feature of the loft and occupies the entire second level. This spacious retreat is designed for comfort and style, complete with a beautifully renovated ensuite and a generous walk-in robe. The master suite also connects to a private exterior balcony, where you can unwind and take in the serene surroundings, making it the perfect spot for a morning coffee or evening relaxation.

On the ground level of the loft, the open-plan living, dining, and kitchen area offers a warm, inviting space ideal for both everyday living and entertaining. The cozy ambiance is enhanced by a traditional fireplace, creating a welcoming atmosphere during the cooler months. In the warmer seasons, the seamless indoor/outdoor flow allows you to host gatherings with ease, whether you're enjoying the intimate interior or stepping outside to the well-equipped entertaining area. A thoughtfully renovated laundry with an additional toilet adds to the convenience and functionality of this level.

The outdoor space is equally impressive, with a well-designed entertaining area that overlooks the entire property. This outdoor haven is perfect for alfresco dining, weekend barbecues, or simply enjoying the tranquility of the surroundings. The property's expansive landholding, coupled with dual street access, presenting a wealth of opportunities for future development or personal customization (STCC), offering endless possibilities for the next owner.
