Dr Who fans will think this is the Tardis. It is deceptively big

Sitting on a level and fully fenced 1012 sqm block just a couple of blocks from the centre of town and the local schools this property is twice as big as it looks.

It has 5 bedrooms and possibly 6 though we are calling the 6th and office. Not many 1940's Queenslanders have an ensuite bathroom but this one does. It is very modern. To blow your mind even further it has two more full bathrooms on the top floor, both of these have been renovated as well. The kitchen is pretty much original and has a walk-in space for a pantry beside it. There are two living areas, one is an open-plan living-dining space and the other is a separate lounge room. These living areas have brand new air conditioning systems whilst most of the bedrooms have box air cons.

Sitting high up on piers you have a full floor space of garaging/ workshop/ storage etc. It is all concrete under here and so good for anyone who is into wood-turning or making things. This kind of person will probably spend most of the day down here. It is lovely and cool. The massive block is perfect for veggie gardens, fruit trees, and possibly even bees and chickens. You could tinker around here all day and if you're a dog person you know your dog will be happy and safe. High fences and heaps of shade will ensure that.

It is not Buckingham Palace but it is a lot of accommodation. With the extra bathrooms would make a great share house.
