This glorious homage to mid-century modern design offers a rare opportunity to embrace a rich piece of Queenscliff history and secure an original 1970s home with impressive potential. With unparalleled and unfettered north-facing views over Swan Bay towards Swan Island, this home is perfectly positioned to maximise the breathtaking scenery. Cradled within the George family's hands for the past five decades, this iconic residence now awaits a new chapter with its next custodians. A passion project for lovers of mid-century modern architecture and design, this home offers an unmissable chance to breathe new life into its charming bones. Its forward-thinking, modern layout encompasses four generous bedrooms, two bathrooms and a central open plan living and dining area with a generous kitchen and spacious butler's pantry. Panoramic views of the water can be appreciated from almost all aspects of the home through extensive glazing. Original features can be found throughout such as patterned carpet, timber accents and patterned tiling in the unrenovated bathrooms. With flexible extra spaces such as a pantry room and parents' retreat/small study off the master bedroom, there is no end to this home's potential. In addition, a cavernous double lock-up garage on the ground floor is ideal for multiple cars, a workshop, or even storage for a caravan or boat. Outdoor spaces include a north-facing timber deck, an enclosed sunroom, and minimal front landscaping to ensure uninterrupted views. This home, steeped in local history, presents a fantastic opportunity for families, mid-century design enthusiasts, or renovation aficionados. Located close to the vibrant townships of Queenscliff and Point Lonsdale, and directly opposite the water, this property offers an enviable lifestyle. Embrace the opportunity to own your very own piece of Queenscliff history and gently nurture it into its next chapter.
