Sometimes it's the little things that make the biggest differences. At Providence it's in the urban plan, which connects virtually every street to an area of park or bush, and in the choice of grass, selected for its softness underfoot. No home at Providence is more than 150m from a park. There are 20 hectares of recreational space, plus a further 75 hectares of surrounding bush and wetlands. Homesites are NBN-ready and landscaping and fencing packages, together with the planting of over 1500 street trees, are all included to give your new home instant kerb appeal.
