If you feel like even a country town is too big for you to finally settle in, this large vacant lot situated in a small rural siding in the Great Southern region might just fit your lifestyle aspirations. It is in the heart of farming country and offers the best of both worlds, in that you can live well away from crowds but still have access to town essentials when you need them. And even the coast is not too far away, if you love the beach, boating, camping, four-wheel driving and fishing. The property is only 14kms from Jerramungup and 27kms from Ongerup, and a one-hour drive from spectacular Bremer Bay coastline and the gateway to the Fitzgerald National Park. And when it comes to needing city services, the beautiful regional coastal city of Albany is just under two hours away. Acquire this lot for great escape.
