This block is tucked away in the little township of Palgarup, only 9.8km north of Manjimup. Located off a side street you are tucked away from the highway with limited local traffic passing by. It does not get much quieter than this. The property has a winter creek running at present with some wetland, however there are also good elevations for building your dream home. A lovely stand of natural trees with a fairly open aspect lending itself toward good pastured areas. You just need to contend with the black berry bushes. Blocks of this size are a rare find and this one is very well priced. Contact me today for a viewing of this great little option!!
